ABOUT ISAAC BRUCE AND THE ISAAC BRUCE FOUNDATION

Isaac epitomizes greatness both on and off the field. Between the lines, the wide receiver is a future Hall of Famer, gaining more than 15,000 receiving yards and scoring 91 touchdowns during his 14 season with the Rams and two seasons with the 49ers. He retired as No. 2 all-time on the NFL Receiving Yards list and No. 5 on the NFL Receptions list. Off the field, Isaac is one of the classiest and most giving athletes in the NFL. Isaac truly makes a difference in people's lives through his work with local schools and by donating his time and money to various charitable causes.

Isaac launched the Isaac Bruce Foundation in 2006 which focuses on health, wellness, nutrition, fitness and education. Through the Foundation, Isaac reaches out to youth and teaches them at an early age the importance of a healthy lifestyle with an emphasis on education.

To date, the Isaac Bruce Foundation has donated more than a quarter of a million dollars in grants and scholarships, fed more than 3,000 families in partnership with Feed the Children and other hunger relief organizations, had more than 4,300 kids participate in our free football clinics, donated more than 1,200 autographed items to other charities for raffles and auctions to help them raise money, donated more than 14,000 books to underserved preschool students, and rewarded more than 1,000 student athletes with tickets to a NFL game for their work in the community and the classroom.
